

Legal Notice

The following regulations apply to ContiTech Antriebssysteme GmbH and to its subsidiaries.

Use of the website, product liability

The information on this website is non-binding and is made available exclusively for informational purposes. It is only of an informative nature and does not represent offers as defined in the relevant legal regulations. Further information and contractual conditions can be obtained through the responsible authorized dealers. It is not possible for a contract relating to goods presented to arise on the basis of the information contained on the website.

The information on the website and the products and services described in that information can be changed or updated by ContiTech AG at any time and without prior notice. Unless explicitly stated elsewhere, the ContiTech AG websites contain no guarantees or quality descriptions for which ContiTech AG is liable – either explicit or tacit – nor with respect to the topicality, accuracy, completeness and quality of the information.

ContiTech AG does not assume any liability in conjunction with its websites. Liability for any direct or indirect damages, compensation claims, consequential damages of any kind and on any legal basis arising from access to or use of the websites, and particularly in connection with virus infections of users' computing environments, is excluded.

For the purposes of the establishment and fulfillment of obligations as well as the liability of ContiTech AG for its products and services, the sole binding authority in each case is the respective contractual agreements including the terms and conditions of ContiTech AG in their respective current versions.

Notice on external links

Our offer contains links to external websites belonging to third parties, over which we have no influence concerning content. Therefore, we also cannot accept any liability for this other content. The page's respective provider or operator is always responsible for the contents of the linked pages. The linked pages were checked for possible legal violations at the time the links were created. Unlawful content was not detected at the time the links were created. However, ongoing inspection of the content of the linked pages is not reasonable without concrete indication of a legal violation. We will immediately remove the relevant links if they are found to violate any law.

Worldwide availability of products

This website may contain information about products which are not available in your country. The existence of such information on this website does not imply an intention on the part of ContiTech AG to assert the availability of any such products everywhere in the world. Please inquire through your ContiTech AG dealership or representative to learn more about the future plans for products that are not currently available to you.

- 2 -

Brands and copyright laws

The brands and logos (“trademarks”) shown on these websites are the property of ContiTech AG or its subsidiaries. None of the information on these websites is to be interpreted as granting licenses or brands. The express written consent of ContiTech AG is necessary for this. Unauthorized use of these trademarks is strictly prohibited. ContiTech AG will assert its intellectual property rights worldwide within the scope of the applicable legislation.

Copyright © 2019 ContiTech AG. All rights reserved. All texts, images, graphics, animations, videos, music, sounds and other materials on these websites are subject to the copyright and other intellectual property rights of ContiTech AG and its subsidiaries. ContiTech AG owns the copyright for the selection, coordination and arrangement of the materials on this website. These materials may not be copied for commercial use or distribution. Neither may they be modified or passed on to other websites.